The company offers services such as strategy development, risk management, organizational design, and operational improvement. Oliver Wyman is known for its expertise in data analytics, strategic planning, and leadership development, among other areas. The firm has a strong reputation for delivering results and helping its clients achieve their goals which has led to their reach expanding to Dubai and our team were honoured to support the construction of their new office.

Our flooring, wall, and joinery work incorporated two remarkable systems, Microtopping and Purometallo, provided by our partners at Ideal Work. These versatile solutions elevate the quality of any space they grace. Microtopping, a 3-4mm thick microcement system, offers customisable colours and textures, along with exceptional wear resistance for high-traffic areas. It enhances all existing surfaces and is compatible with an endless variety of base materials. Purometallo is an exclusive line of decorative metal powder-based coatings for walls and furniture which allowed us to transform surfaces into noble metals with tactile, foil-like, or chromatic effects. Both systems are non-toxic, eco-friendly, low-maintenance, and ideal for residential and commercial spaces and providing a cost-effective solution for creating distinctive, stylish surfaces.

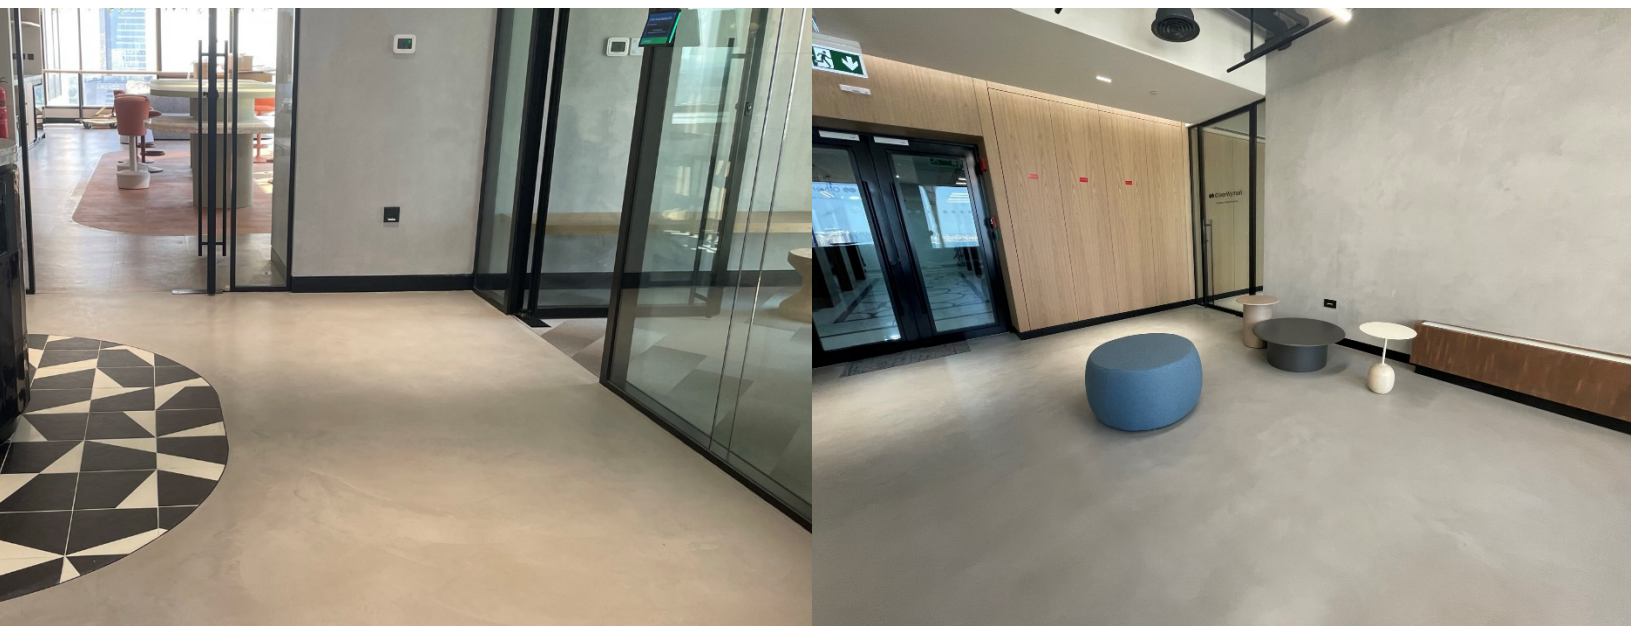

Our experienced team members never cease to astound our clients with their skillful application strategies and capacity to make any project ideas and specifications come to life. The most crucial component of our projects is client happiness, and we continually help them by providing a variety of materials, colours, and finishes to suit their specific design needs. With such gorgeous finishes, our surfaces will continue to grow in the design and build sector since each member of our team contributes to a synergy which is unmatched and rare within the construction industry.
